1.2 Principal Purpose of the Issue and Funding Arrangements

Purpose of the Right Issue

The proceeds from the rights issue will be utilized to Repay Subordinated loan principal with financial charges and upgradation of the technology both of which are vital for sustaining business growth. This aligns with the Company's broader strategy to strengthen its financial position, enhance profitability, and ultimately deliver greater returns to shareholders.

Utilization of Right Issue Proceeds

Purpose of the Issue	Proceeds Utilization (PKR)	% of Right Issue Proceeds
Repayment of Subordinated loan with Financial Charges	26,572,524	53.24%
Upgradation of the Technology	10,000,000	20%
Investment in our own fund	13,334,985	26.76%
TOTAL	PKR 49,907,509	100%

A. Basis of raising the money from right issue:

- The Company has an outstanding subordinated loan that carries associated financial charges. This liability increases the financing cost and impacts the bottom line.
- Existing technology infrastructure requires modernization to meet evolving market standards and operational efficiency needs.
- The Company seeks to strengthen its internal investment capacity through allocation to its own fund.

B. Reasons and benefits for raising additional funds (with facts and figures)

- Repaying this loan strengthens the balance sheet, reduces financial leverage, and lowers recurring interest expenses, thereby improving profitability and enhancing long-term sustainability.
- Investment in technology upgradation will improve productivity, reduce operational bottlenecks, enhance service delivery, and maintain competitiveness. This ensures 786 Investments Limited continuity and supports growth by aligning with industry best practices.
- This investment creates an additional revenue stream, diversifies income sources, and provides financial resilience. It also reflects prudent treasury management, positioning the Company for future growth opportunities and shareholder value creation.

A. Internal Risk Factors

Type of Risk	Description
a) Operational Risk	Operational risk summarizes the uncertainties a business faces when it attempts to conduct its day-to-day business activities specifically in relation to plant operation in which the company intends to invest. It can result from breakdowns in internal procedures, people and systems including challenges related to energy price fluctuations.
b) Financial Risk	Financial risk involves potential uncertainties and adverse events related to financial assets and liabilities. It is imperative that this is diligently managed to secure financial stability and stakeholder interests. The Company maintains a limited overall risk exposure concerning its financial assets and liabilities. It firmly believes that there is no significant concentration of credit risk to which it is exposed. Any potential exposure to credit risk is proactively managed through the prudent application of credit limits to its customers.
c) Credit Risk	Credit risk represents the risk of financial loss that would be recognized at the reporting date if counter parties fail to perform as contracted. The Company's credit risk is primarily attributable to its receivables and its balances. The Company believes that it is not exposed to any major concentration of credit risk.
d) Liquidity Risk	Liquidity risk is where an entity will encounter difficulty in meeting obligations associated with financial liabilities. The management believes the liquidity risk to be insignificant.
e) Risk of Non-Compliance with Regulations (SECP & PSX)	The Company has instituted the process of removing the company from non-compliant with PSX. The change of object clause from manufacturing to invest in and acquire and hold and otherwise deal in shares, stock, debenture, debenture stock, bonds, obligations and securities issued or guaranteed to ensure compliance not only with applicable laws and regulations but also to stay at par with best international practices.

5.3 External Risk Factors

Type of Risk	Description
A. Business Risk	Business risk refers to the chance that the Company might report profits that fall below expectations or incur losses, and this can occur due to various factors, including: Reduction in demand due to overall macro-economic slowdown in the products of the company it is investing.
B. Interest Rate Risk	Interest rate risk is the potential for changes in the fair value or future cash flows of financial instruments due to fluctuations in market interest/mark-up rates. This risk arises when there are mismatches between the maturities or re-pricing of financial assets and liabilities. As of June 30, 2025, except for the subordinated loan, the Company has no debt outstanding with any financial institution.
C. Foreign Exchange Risk	Foreign currency risk is the risk that the fair value or future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in foreign exchange rates. Foreign currency risk arises from future commercial transactions or receivables and payables that exist due to transactions in foreign currencies.
D. Risk in the Global Economic and Financial Markets	Due to ongoing geopolitical disruption causing high commodity prices, all major economies of the world including USA, UK and European countries are facing inflationary pressure. Some of the major global financial institutions are foreseeing signs of recession in major countries which may cause volatility in international financial markets. The ripple down effect may affect the Pakistani economy and financial markets adversely which could impact the overall macro condition of the Country with limited ability of the government to secure new debt from international markets, which in turn could affect the PKR/USD parity.
E. Regulatory Risk	Regulatory risk pertains to the possibility of future changes in government policies and regulations which could potentially impact the various business segments the Company has its investments. Modifications in the regulatory landscape, such as change in import tariffs which have the potential to notably impact the overall performance of the industry in which company has investments. Additionally, any change in regulatory duties or taxes related to the import of raw materials or finished products could directly affect the Company's profitability where it has investments.
